Moneikos Balanced Fund - Class I

February 2025

Monthly commentary

Against a backdrop of greater economic and geopolitical uncertainty, risk assets continued to climb higher in February, albeit with some signs of changing market leadership. Most notably, European stocks again outperformed for the month, led by the Euro Stoxx 50 (+4.7%), while the S&P 500 (-0.7%) and Nasdaq 100 (-1.9%) underperformed major stock indices. Additionally, Hong Kong's Hang Seng index (+13.5%) saw considerable strength following the Chinese New Year. Performance in fixed income was driven by declining bond yields, with solid returns in US Treasuries (+2.1%) and US Investment Grade credit (+2.0%). Within precious metals, gold (+1.3%) ended the month higher, while silver (-3.2%) experienced a bigger pull-back.

The Moneikos Balanced Fund returned -0.7% (net of fees) in February. Holdings in the Diversifier and Directional Equities categories, in addition to the fund's cash position, weighed on performance. The fund's holdings in the Fixed Income category were leading contributors.
